Foreword

Twilight has set upon the work of the Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-four GRANITE, but this sunset is merely the forerunner of the glorious daybreak that is to follow—a dawn of a greater New Hampshire. The advance of the University will not be retarded, but it will progress as did the growth of our own Colonial Government, and the seat of our Alma Mater. May the trend be upward, not downward; forward, not backward.

In Memoriam

ELIZABETH PICKERING DEMERITT

On March nineteenth, 1932, Elizabeth Pickering DeMeritt passed away. Mrs. DeMeritt was appointed matron of Ballard Hall in 1914. In 1919 she was appointed Dean of Women, in which position she served until June, 1931.

Her poise and graciousness of manner, together with fairness in decision and firmness in execution, has been a splendid example for the young women of the University. All who knew Dean DeMeritt held for her the greatest esteem.

In Memoriam

LAWRENCE HALL OPDYCKE

Lawrence Hall Opdycke, Assistant Professor of Chemistry, passed away after a brief illness on April eighth, 1932. Doctor Opdycke was appointed in January, 1929, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Professor George A. Perley. He was a graduate of Rutgers University, in the Class of 1913, and had received the Master of Arts degree from Columbia University, and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Johns Hopkins University. His intense interest in chemistry led him to the Polytechnicum in Zurich, where he pursued advance studies. Doctor Opdycke was an untiring research worker, an excellent teacher, and beloved by all who knew him.

Administration

President Edward M. Lewis

A GRADUAL but continual change has been taking place in the University of New Hampshire for the past few years. At the top of the state universities in New England stands the University of New Hampshire. There is probably no one who has helped to attain this high standing more than President Edward M. Lewis who came to us six years ago.

President Edward M. Lewis

The building program has been under the direction of President Lewis for the past few years, Scott Hall, the new dormitory for women, being the most recent addition to our campus.

Since President Lewis has been with the University, he has strived to increase its scholastic standing. The All-University average was higher last year than it has been since 1926-27. The adequate secondary school preparation on the part of applicants for admission has yielded splendid results.

The Trustees of the Cogswell Benevolent Trust of Manchester, because of the interest and influence of Mr. Lewis, donated five thousand dollars to the State University last year and has decided to continue the gift for another year. This money provides for scholarships for undergraduates of academic achievement.

It is hoped that the growth and progress of the past will continue indefinitely, and the affairs of the University will remain in the capable hands of President Lewis and his staff.

College of Agriculture

HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE

THE incentive to State legislative consideration of an agricultural college was the Congressional land grant act of 1862, which gave the State 150,000 acres of public land to be used for the support of a college of agriculture and the mechanic arts. The script representing this land was sold in 1867 for the sum of $80,000, and the proceeds invested in 6% bonds, but none of this could be used for building purposes. The law which established the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts was passed in 1866, and authorized the location of the college at Hanover in connection with Dartmouth.

Dean Eastman

The college was duly opened in 1868. Its first professor was Ezekiel Webster Dimond, a very able man, who, until his death in 1876, worked energetically for the up-building of the struggling institution, which was commonly considered an experiment. As no provision had yet been made for housing, the new college carried on its work in Dartmouth classrooms and laboratories. After one year under this system, Professor Dimond declared, "A building of some sort we must have, in addition to all the facilities that Dartmouth College can furnish, or the institution cannot go on with any reasonable hope of success; and, moreover, there is a pressing demand for its immediate use."

The location of the college was changed in 1893, when it severed its connection at Hanover and moved to Durham. This resulted from the fact that Benjamin Thompson, who had been a farmer in the new location, had died in the year 1890, and had left to the college, with very few reservations, his entire estate. The legislature of 1891 had accepted the gift, and had appropriated the necessary money to erect some suitable buildings for the college in the town of Durham.

At about this period of time, the Congressional legislation known as the Morrill Act had been passed, which provided assistance for instruction in agriculture and mechanic arts, and various other branches of learning. At present, the college has an annual income from the Thompson Fund of nearly $32,000. It receives also monies as a result of the act of Congress referred to, and a yearly appropriation from the State, amounting to one mill on the State's assessed valuation.

Some engineering work has been offered since the founding of the college. The work was unified and specialized considerably when the College of Technology was recognized as one of the units of the University in 1923. The Liberal Arts instruction was recognized also as a separate college when the name of the institution was formally changed to the University of New Hampshire in 1923.

The Agricultural College has some part of the services of thirty professors and instructors, and comprises ten departments offering subject matter. This organization provides eight major curricula from which students may obtain a degree. In addition to numerous University barns and other farm buildings, it occupies the total or major part of five buildings, and lesser parts in two others, for teaching. The several farms of the University total more than 1,000 acres in land.

The total registration in the Agricultural College at this time is 161 students. The lowest registration recently was in the college year ending with graduation June, 1929. In common, with the experience of the country as a whole, our State College of Agriculture had suffered a decrease in attendance after the war. However, this change for us was proportionately smaller than the average. Since 1929, we have increased our enrollment every year until the present student body is 34 per cent. larger than that of four years ago. The increase for the last two years has averaged 10 per cent.

College of Liberal Arts

HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE

Dean Jackson

THE College of Liberal Arts, as such, did not exist until May 4, 1923, when the state legislature passed an act incorporating the University of New Hampshire. However, from the date of the founding of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts in 1866 to the present day, there has been a gradual growth in the number of students and the amount of instruction in liberal arts. In the first graduating class of 1871, consisting of three members, one B.S. degree in Arts and Science was conferred. From 1871 to 1912 the number of degrees conferred in Arts and Sciences fluctuated from none to as high as eight. In 1912 there were sixteen degrees conferred in Arts and Science; in 1915 there were thirty, and in 1920 there were fifty-two. From this time on, the number of degrees in the field of liberal arts increased rapidly until in 1931 there were two hundred and six Baccalaureate degrees conferred.

In the catalog of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts for 1885, it is stated that there are courses given in the following Liberal

Third Row: Floyd, Brown, Towle, Herring, Monroe, Packard, Creath, Johnson.

Arts subjects: Natural History, Bookkeeping and Drawing, English and Rhetoric, Political Science, History, and French. On the faculty at that time, teaching liberal arts subjects were Dr. Clarence W. Scott, "Professor of English Language and Literature," and Rev. Henry G. Jesup, "Professor of Natural History." There were only two prescribed courses in the College at this early date, one in Agriculture and Chemistry and one in Mechanical Engineering.

In January, 1891, the first step toward a definite Liberal Arts division was taken. Courses were opened to women and a "General Course" was established, "especially designed for women" as the catalog stated. In 1893, the College was established in Durham; and, in 1901, the college catalog stated, "The General Course . . . has been broadened and improved by additional studies, and by an extensive scheme of elections, until in its present form it offers to either men or women a liberal education on a scientific basis." At this time there were about eight instructors in liberal arts subjects. In 1909 the name of the General Course was changed to the Arts and Science Course; and when, in 1911, the College was divided into three divisions, it became the Arts and Science Division. This made possible the introduction of many new liberal arts subjects. In 1916, Ernest R. Groves, A.B., B.D., was appointed Dean of Arts and Science Division. He was succeeded, in 1921, by Professor Albert N. French, who, when the University was organized in 1923, became Dean of the College of Liberal Arts. Owing to the rapid increase in the number of students from 1920 to 1930, there was also a great expansion in the number of subjects, the number of prescribed courses, and the instructional staff.

The present administration dates from 1930 when Professor C. F. Jackson was appointed to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Professor French as Dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE

INSTRUCTION in Engineering, Architecture and Chemistry was of a most elementary nature when this work was first given in the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts, when this College was part of Dartmouth at Hanover, N. H. The first class was graduated in 1871, after having been in the College for three years, and considering the low entrance requirements, could not have been as far advanced in scholastic training for these fields as students in these curricula are now, at the end of their sophomore year. In this first class was one engineering graduate.

Dean Case

The facilities for teaching engineering were very meager, and it was not until the College was moved to Durham that it owned laboratories in which to give such instruction. The emphasis on instruction in applied work was directed toward developments in the Shops—Wood and Machine—and the first money received for this purpose from the federal government was invested in shop equipment.

Back Row: Donovan, Sewell, Hartwell, Tonkin, Starke, Taylor.
Third Row: Perreton, Nulsen, Wilbur, Funkhouser, Uicker, Stolworthy, Laton.
Second Row: Solt, Kichline, Perkins, Demos, Getchell, Smith, Thomas, Fogg.
Front Row: Moran, Jackson, Hitchcock, Case, Huddleston, Slobin, Iddles.

The foundation for instruction in these fields of art and applied science, even at that early date, was composed of English, Chemistry, Mathematics and Physics, as it is today.

The instruction in engineering for sixteen years was given by and under the direction of the Head of the Department of Mathematics—Charles H. Pettee, now Dean of the Faculty of the University, who needs no introduction to New Hampshire University people.

The first instructor to be employed primarily for engineering work was Thomas W. Kincaid in 1886, who became Professor of Mechanical Engineering in 1887.

Until 1889 there was no one on the faculty of the College trained to teach research Chemistry of the kind taught in the College of Technology at the present time. At that time Charles L. Parsons was employed as instructor in this capacity, and became full Professor in 1891. Dr. Parsons was really the founder of the department of technology Chemistry at the University and has become one of the outstanding chemists of the country. He also came to Durham when the College was moved here, and remained in the capacity of Professor of Chemistry until 1912, when he left to become Secretary of the American Chemical Society, and Professor Charles James became Head of the Department.

The first instructor trained to teach Physics of the scientific nature now given engineers was George L. Teeple, who had a degree in Mechanical Engineering, and who was especially interested in the field of Electrical Engineering.

In 1914 plans for the organization of the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts into Divisions were completed, to meet the needs of a growing institution, and work started in the fall of 1915 with the Division of Engineering, under the direction of C. E. Hewitt as Dean. During this period of 45 years, the enrollment in the degree-giving departments, making up this Division, had gradually increased until graduating classes varied between 12 and 26 members. Up to 1919 the largest class was that which graduated in 1909 and contained 26 members.

This organization of Divisions continued until the University was formed in 1923 and the Division of Engineering became the College of Technology, and Calvin H. Crouch, Dean of the Division of Engineering, became Dean of the College.

The College of Technology was formed with the same Departments that had made up the Division of Engineering, and the number remained the same until the Department of Civil Engineering was organized in 1926 with Professor E. W. Bowler as its head. The first class to be graduated by this new Department of Civil Engineering was in 1929, and was two-thirds the number graduated in the Engineering group the year before the Engineering Division was formed.

History of the Town of Durham

BECAUSE the present and future history of Durham is so closely connected with the history of the University of New Hampshire, there are those who do not realize that the past history of Durham is such as to lend distinction to the town in its own right.

The relative importance of the early towns was largely dependent on their locations in relation to rivers or bodies of water. Durham is situated on what the Indians called the Shankhassick river. The early settlers called it the Oyster River, and such is its name today. It is difficult to tell exactly when the first family settled in what is the present town of Durham. But by 1640 there was a fairly large settlement called Oyster River Settlement. This was the forerunner of the town of Durham, but it was at that time a part of Dover. The first houses were along the river near where the Oyster River and the Piscataqua River meet.

Francis Mather is said to have been one of the very earliest settlers. His mother was the midwife of Henrietta Maria at the birth of Charles II, and was a favorite of the queen. He obtained grants of land which made him the owner of much of the salt marsh along the river and the north shore of Great Bay. The marsh grass was highly prized at the time as food for the cattle of the settlers, who spent their time in fishing rather than in cultivating hay on the uplands.

It was not many years before the Oyster River Settlement began to desire separation from Dover. The settlers found it hard to go all the way to Dover Neck for church every Sunday, especially, when they had to row against the tide to get there. They wanted to be chartered as a separate parish. Their request was not granted, but a compromise was reached allowing them to have a church and minister of their own. This arrangement held from 1651 to 1669. In 1669 a petition was sent to the General Court at Boston asking that the Oyster River settlement be incorporated as a town. Again a compromise was reached. Oyster River was made a separate parish, but it still remained a part of Dover.

The Town of Durham came into being 201 years ago. The name Durham was chosen by Rev. Hugh Adams, then minister at Oyster River parish, "to commemorate the palatine form of government originally accorded to the New Hampshire settlement." This referred to the charter in which Charles I granted New Hampshire to Captain John Mason, "with power of government, and as ample jurisdiction and prerogatives as used by the bishop of Durham." The precise date of the act creating the Township of Durham was May 15, 1732.

Incidentally, Reverend Adams is worth a little more attention. He was said to know, "a thousand times more about scripture than about human nature." He had difficulty in getting his salary from his parishioners. On one occasion, according to his own story, he became so enraged at lack of payment that he prayed that no rain should fall for three months before the harvest. No rain fell until, after much coaxing, he sanctified a church fast which brought the rain in abundance.

During the French and Indian Wars, Durham was the scene of a massacre. There were twelve garrison houses in the town at the time, but the inhabitants were careless in providing ammunition for some of them. When an attack was made by 250 Maine Indians under the leadership of Sieur de Villien, five of the houses were taken, and almost one hundred people were killed. The Indians also burned fifteen private houses before they left. One man defended his house, after sending his family down the river in a boat, by shouting orders as though he had men with him, shooting many guns in rapid succession, and changing his hat or coat every time he showed himself at a window. The Indians, thinking themselves outnumbered, withdrew.

When the Revolutionary War came, Durham men were active in it. Although his ride from Boston to Lexington is his most famous one, Paul Revere made many other rides in his capacity as messenger for the Committee of Correspondence of Boston, which kept the New England colonies informed as to what was going on in the controversy with Great Britain. Tradition has it that Paul Revere came to Durham on one occasion to solicit the support of Durham men in the coming war. Even if he did not actually get to the town of Durham, one of his trips to Portsmouth was responsible for one of the important incidents in Durham history.

As a result of a message received from Boston at the hands of Paul Revere, about four hundred citizens of Portsmouth, led by John Langdon, captured Fort William and Mary in Portsmouth harbor, and took away the powder that was stored there. This was the first overt act of hostility in the Revolutionary War. John Sullivan has been given the credit by some people for leading this expedition, and by others he is given credit for assisting his friend, Langdon.

It is probable that neither of these stories is exactly true, however. The more accurate story is probably as follows:

John Langdon led the Portsmouth men against the fort on the afternoon of December 14, 1774. They took the powder, but instead of keeping it at Portsmouth, they sent it to John Sullivan at Durham. He had been active in the Continental Congress, and was a man who would know what to do with it. Probably the arrival of the powder with a note from Langdon was the first that Sullivan had heard of what had happened. The Langdon expedition had been a matter of impulse and to have gone all the way to Durham after help in the raid would have taken too much time. The powder was stored under the pulpit of the Durham church which stood on the left side of the New-market road just across the bridge by the dam where the Sullivan Monument now stands. It probably was left there for a day or two and then was moved to the home of Major Demeritt, the "Powder Major," in Madbury. Tradition has it that some of the powder was taken to the Battle of Bunker Hill. Sullivan did not stop at that, however. There were other military supplies at the fort and the Durham militia needed rifles. On the evening of December 15, Sullivan and about 40 Durham men again went to the fort and brought away the guns that were stored there. Some of the guns were repaired at town expense and they were used with effectiveness by Durham men in the Revolutionary War.

General Sullivan has more than this one expedition to entitle him to honor. He was close to Washington during the greater part of the war and was chosen to crush the Iroquois Indians in New York, thus "avenging the massacre of Wyoming and Cherry Valley, destroying the Iroquois Confederacy, ending attacks on our settlements, and thereby opening westward the pathway of civilization." This quotation is from the inscription on the monument commemorating the battle of Newton at Elmira, New York.

The years following the Revolutionary War were prosperous years for Durham. The many little streams within its borders were dotted with mills of which General Sullivan owned six at one time, and on the shore of the Oyster River near the Falls was a ship yard. The hulls were made at Durham and floated down to Portsmouth where they were rigged. At least two of the privateers which were used in the War of 1812 were built at Durham and rigged at Portsmouth. There were thirteen stores in Durham at one time, besides an inn or two.

The importance of Durham increased with the building of the Piscataqua bridge which provided a short way to Portsmouth. The bridge was built across the bay on a point opposite Goat Island. The piers of the bridge can still be seen just off the Back River road to Dover. Soon after the bridge was finished the first New Hampshire turnpike was built. This led from Portsmouth to Concord, and was the main route to the interior of New Hampshire and to much of Vermont.

The increasing prosperity of Durham led to a land boom. A real estate development, to be known as Franklin City, was planned at the Durham end of the Piscataqua bridge. Prominent citizens of Durham, Dover, and Portsmouth were included in the company for the purpose of developing the "city." Streets were surveyed, the land was cut into house lots, and space was provided for public buildings. But the decline of shipping during the war of 1812 was a blow which discouraged the proprietors. Franklin City never became a reality.

The prosperity of Durham was only slightly diminished, however, until the coming of the railroads in 1841. This made transportation from Boston so easy and rapid that the ox teams rumbling across the Piscataqua Bridge could not even furnish close competition. The Turnpike was almost deserted. Clipper ships began to give way to steamships. The things that Durham had depended on for prosperity suddenly collapsed and the town became little more than a cross road stopping place.

But there was still Benjamin Thompson left. When, due to his generosity, it was made possible to move the New Hampshire College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts to Durham, a new era in Durham history began. From then on, the history of Durham, has been closely bound with the history of the college.

Outing Club

THE LOG—1932-1933

In the constitution of the Outing Club the object and purpose of the organization is set forth as "the promotion at the University of New Hampshire of camping, tramping, mountain climbing, snow-shoeing, skiing, skating, tobogganning, riding, canoeing, woodcraft, photography, and similar out-door activities." This primary idea of the founders has been followed by the club for the past eleven years, and since the adoption of the new constitution early in 1932 it has continued on with the same enthusiasm that led the founders to organize what has come to be the largest organization on the campus. To carry out the 1932-1933 program required no little effort on the part of the members and especially the governing body, Blue Circle.

One of the first jobs of the year undertaken by the club was the membership drive and the formation of plans in anticipation of the wants and needs of the actively interested members. Early in the fall a party from the club climbed Mount Chocorua to start an interest in mountain climbing. Throughout the year several parties made this ascent and many more difficult ones in the White Mountains. The interest started has repaid those who participated in the climbs many times over. Trips were also taken to the Club cabin at Mendam's pond throughout the year, and a guest trip early in the fall to the Dartmouth Outing Club was enjoyed by several of the members.

The biggest job of the year was undertaken early in February when the Club sponsored the annual Winter Carnival. Under the efficient committee in charge, all work pertaining to the Carnival was carried out with great dispatch. Much credit belongs to them for their very fine work. The staging of a torchlight parade, King Winter's court, and an exceptionally fine Carnival Ball were the outstanding events of the winter term. During the term several men interested in skiing, made a trip to Fort Montain where a new ski trail was cut down the mountain and a very fast run was enjoyed by those who participated. This mountain promises much sport to those interested either in mountain climbing or in very fast ski down-hill running. It is the opinion of the club that this mountain could and should be used more by all members interested in this phase of the club work. Permission has been granted to the club to erect a shelter near the top where a very fine view can be enjoyed. Plans have also been completed for a shelter-cabin on the campus. This should be completed early in the fall of 1933.

And so with the closing of another year, the present officers lay down their work and hand over to the incoming officers a job that requires no little effort on their part and which will repay them a thousandfold for any outlay of energy that they may have to expend. We of the 1932-1933 Council extend our best wishes for a continued success.

Mask and Dagger

Mask and Dagger was introduced to the members of the class of 1934 through its fall term production of Sir James M. Barrie's What Every Woman Knows. Eunice Sawyer played the lead and was supported by a group of troupers who were to become well known to Durham players in later performances; Robert Ayres, Ruth Winterton, Fred Gates and Beatrice Luce were all impressive in their parts. Professor William G. Hennessy had shown us how to make an amateur performance as convincing as a professional one.

No members of the class of 1934 were in What Every Woman Knows, but the following term found one of our classmates playing the lead in Robert E. Sherwood's The Queen's Husband. Edward Dawson stepped into the role of King Eric VIII, and here's what Oliver Jenkins of The Concord Monitor had to say about it: "Although I have seen neither the original stage role as created by Mr. Roland Young, nor the more recent film interpretation of Mr. Lowell Sherman, I doubt whether these two could improve appreciably upon the nearly flawless work of Edward Dawson, student, in the title part of King Eric VIII. I am well aware that this is high praise." Donald Fassnacht, also '34, did excellent work in the juvenile lead. James "Red" Hayes made his Mask and Dagger debut with Dawson and Fassnacht in this show.

A. A. Milne's The Perfect Alibi followed next with Thomas Pingree, Ruth Winterton, Norman Randell, Bob Ayres and Evelyn Huse playing important parts. Priscilla Glazier and Edward Dawson represented our class in the show. Edward Haseltine, retiring president of Mask and Dagger, was the victim of The Perfect Alibi.

With Clare Kummer's Rollo's Wild Oat, Mask and Dagger started a new year. John Clarey carried the brunt of this piece supported by a strong cast including Mary Connors, Donald Fassnacht, Beatrice Luce, Harold Waite, Thomas Day, Arline Hooper and Edward Gale. This was the show with the hilarious burlesque of Hamlet.

Three Live Ghosts, following on the heels of "Rollo," was almost too much comedy for Durham play-goers, but it was widely enjoyed. Edward Gale as the likeable lunatic, "Snoopy," did the outstanding work in this production, and his ludicrous expressions will long be remembered by Mask and Dagger audiences. James Slack, James Hayes, and Richard Belcher handled the heavier "stuff" in the show, with Dorothy Bond, Irene Couser, and Anne Meader giving memorable performances.

Sutton Vane's great play Outward Bound in the spring term of our sophomore year was hailed as Professor Hennessy's finest production in the ten years that he has directed Mask and Dagger. We quote from an early report after the first performance of the play: "Outward Bound offers a sharp-flung tribute to the dramatic strength of the University, to the genius of Sutton Vane, and to the creative powers of Professor and Mrs. Hennessy. They have created actors and drama before, but rarely anything as broad-shouldered in its ambition and as sure-footed in its direction as this." Catherine Dunlap, Edward Dawson, Frank McGrath, Bernard Alpers, Mary O'Leary, Donald Dunnan, Frances French, Franklin Burnham, and Courtney Williams assisted in a production that was very nearly flawless. Bernard Alpers, graduating president of Mask and Dagger, played his last role as the kindly and sagacious "Scrubby" in Outward Bound.

Professor Hennessy returned to A. A. Milne for the fall term play of this year, producing Michael and Mary, starring Donald Fassnacht, '34, and Doris Redmond, a freshman. This was the fourth Milne play under the direction of Professor Hennessy, being preceded by The Dover Road, The Truth About Blayds, and The Perfect Alibi. Thomas Pingree reappeared on the scene in this show as did Edward Gale and Frank McGrath. These veterans were assisted by Elsie Putnam, Edith Raymond, and Harrison Chesley.

For the first time in Mask and Dagger's history, the winter term play had to be postponed because of illness, and the play which had been selected, Ladies of the Jury, is being prepared for spring term production. Meanwhile, every incoming class seems to have its Barrymores and Bernhards and, with the growing wealth in fine plays, Mask and Dagger looks forward to many more successful seasons.

The 1934 Granite Editorial

The 1934 GRANITE is presented for your approval. We hope that you will find within its covers a great deal of pleasure and enjoyment. The aim of the editorial staff has been to create a volume that would serve as a diary for the career of the Class of 1934, and we truthfully believe that this has been accomplished. The many months of planning and labor have produced a record that will bring fond memories and recollections to all who glance through the covers of the 1934 GRANITE.

The edition of a yearbook is by no means a simple task. It involves a great deal of time, planning, and lastly, worry, and now that the work is completed, the planning has ended, and the worry is a thing of the past, we heave a sigh of relief. The staff has worked diligently and well. The heelers did their share of the work. It is only hoped that we will not be harshly criticized. We have done all that we could in a year as critical as the past. If this is borne in mind when judgment is passed we will be thoroughly satisfied.

To those persons who have worked to make the 1934 GRANITE a success, this volume seems comparable to the best yearbooks produced by University of New Hampshire Staffs. It is only natural that we should assume this attitude. It has been our work, and now it is our book. The experience has been invaluable and useful. May you, the judges, be of the same opinion.

The theme of the 1934 GRANITE is "The Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Town of Durham," a history that was not elaborate, but simple and interesting. Using this as a background, the 1934 GRANITE has been constructed with this motif. The covers are black, very plain, broken only by a patch of gold. The gold Ex-libris pages are demonstrative of the glory that was once that of a colonial town. History tells us that Durham was at one time one of the important commercial centers of the American Colonies. The division pages throughout the annual were executed in wood-cut technique—the type of art that was predominant in this era.

Scattered throughout the 1934 GRANITE may be found new features, and many improvements over previous volumes. All in all the book is one that will be useful rather than ornamental. To the Class Section has been added the complete addresses of all students whose names appear. This will make the 1934 GRANITE useful as an address book. The Athletic Section has been greatly enlarged. More space has been devoted to all sports; each sport containing a complete list of men participating in it, the position that each man held, and the town from which each comes. Instead of photographs of captains, caricatures have been used, thus adding a bit of humor to that section. Perhaps the greatest improvement to be found in the 1934 GRANITE is the section called "Granite Chips." In this division there is much of interest. A page called "We Nominate for Oblivion" has been inserted. It is hoped that those people whose names adorn this sheet will not feel offended. It has been in fun. The beauty section is the leading feature of the 1934 GRANITE, for this contains the photographs selected by Mr. Fredric March and Mr. Clive Brook. To them we extend our most humble thanks. This feature is new with the GRANITE of Nineteen Hundred and Thirty-four.

In closing, we wish to thank Howard-Wesson Company, engravers, The Record Press, printers, and The Gherin Gallery, photographers, for the valuable help that they contributed.

The New Hampshire

THE NEW HAMPSHIRE, founded in 1911, is a four-page, seven-column weekly newspaper managed and edited by the undergraduate students of the University. It is the journalistic medium for the transmission and preservation of news of interest to the University community as well as to its host of alumni. The student administration of the newspaper strives to foster undergraduate opinion on pertinent campus problems and to stimulate thought on new issues.

The 1932-1933 staff has attempted to completely renovate the newspaper from an internal standpoint. Notable changes have been made in page make-up and general lay-out. Methods of handling news have been improved with a view toward eliminating, as far as possible, the "stale" element common to many weekly publications. The scope of the publication has been widened to include items of interest to townspeople and to include news of special interest derived from scores of exchange college publications.

Inasmuch as the University supports no department of journalism, with the exception of a single course, THE NEW HAMPSHIRE contributes greatly to the journalistic and literary experience of those students interested in writing and publications.

Owing to the continual shift of personnel and ideas within the organization, there is a distinctive originality to the make-up and handling of stories and editorials. The most noticeable change occurs when the new board takes office each year, as the accumulated experience and ideas of the outgoing board plus the improvements visualized by the incoming board contribute to a new era in the progress of the publication.

In recent years there has been a strong movement for issuing THE NEW HAMPSHIRE semi-weekly. There are several very good reasons for such a procedure—among them the fact that there is so much news which is old when printed, and so much that must be ignored because of the present limitations of space in addition to the fact that feature stories and special articles of interest cannot be favored to a just degree. On the other hand, the time consumed in preparing the present edition from reporting to editing and make-up is hardly appreciated by the casual outsider. To increase the labor of those students performing this function by the addition of another weekly issue would be almost prohibitive from the standpoint of time necessary to accomplish the task. However, it is hoped that in the future some correlation of University curriculum and the time necessary to produce a semi-weekly may be devised by the editors.

Athletics

ATHLETICS

Athletics should be judged not according to their mental or physical characteristics but according to their influence upon qualities of character that cannot be measured by physical efficiency or mental intelligence tests, and according to the effect that they have upon our attitudes, our philosophy of life.

We are gradually drifting toward a new conception and a new ideal in athletics that make us appreciate more and more that there are many things of deeper import that athletics bring to us. Our athletic fields and gymnasiums are considered by most of our present day educators as valuable laboratories of life for, "It is upon the fields of friendly strife that are sown the seeds that upon other fields on other days will reap the fruits of victory." How well we, who have dedicated our lives to the moral, mental and physical welfare of the young men intrusted to us, are constantly reminded that unless we are diligent in the searching out of all the opportunities for the teaching of proper life attitudes, and intelligent in making use of athletics as a force to foster and develop good character, we are apt to encourage young men to sow in these same fertile soils those tares that will in their later life choke out all intellectual and moral growth and destroy the expected harvest.

Character is nothing but a man's quality and it is measured by will power, originality, decision, resourcefulness, initiative and courage. Athletics will develop character because they teach mental alertness, self-reliance, quick decisions, a properly controlled spirit of aggressiveness and lastly a spirit of contest; not the quarrelsome vindictive type but that which enables a young man to take his part stoutly against heavy odds and in spite of repeated reverses to come back again and again undaunted with a determination to do better.

Athletics, we say, build up in us certain indispensable life attitudes. Where, other than on the fields of friendly strife, can one learn more convincingly the truth in these few philosophies of life: the victory of success is half-earned when one learns the spirit of work; the first and best victory is to conquer self; the greater the obstacle the more glory in overcoming it.

Yes, we must judge athletics by the manner in which they are conducted and the good that is accomplished through competition, rather than by the fact that the athletes strive for a great prize, the honor and glory that comes with winning.

COACH CARL LUNDHOLM.

Director William H. Cowell

The student body and the entire University are indeed fortunate to have as Director of Athletics and Head Coach of Football, a man of the capability, integrity, and vision such as William H. Cowell possesses. In the past twenty years this institution has grown from a small college to a prominent state university. As New Hampshire has grown academically, she has grown athletically. In nineteen campaigns, Coach Cowell has succeeded in building up a powerful New Hampshire football team, which annually looms a major threat on the horizon of New England Conference Championships. As Director of Athletics, "Bill" Cowell has taken the helm for all New Hampshire athletic activities, and due to his expert piloting, we undergraduates today can boast of an institution which successfully supports ten major sports.

Coach Cowell has become nationally well known in sporting circles of late years through the American Football Coaches' Association of which he is a former president, and now is, and has been for several years, the Secretary-Treasurer. For his excellent work in football due to his integrity as a coach; for the honor which he brings to the University due to his capabilities in the A. F. C. A.; and for the high standard upon which New Hampshire athletics now rest because of his vision, the GRANITE extends to "Bill" Cowell the true admiration and sincerest thanks of the entire student body.

ERNEST CHRISTENSEN

After being graduated from the University in 1923, Ernest Christensen returned to his alma mater two years later to assist his former coach, William H. Cowell, in carrying forward the work of developing New Hampshire football teams. During his undergraduate days "Chris," as he is popularly known, was a star under Coach Cowell on Wildcat elevens. In addition to his coaching work on the gridiron, "Chris" has had the difficult job of coaching hockey in face of the annual adverse ice conditions, and has met this obstacle with as much success as could be reasonably expected. Three years ago Coach Christensen gave up coaching freshman baseball to take over and organize lacrosse which became a regular varsity sport last year. His tireless and conscientious effort, and his reputation for fairness, has proved his selection as a worthy one. For his very commendable record made at New Hampshire, and for his ability to instill a winning spirit into Wildcat athletes before they go out on the field of battle, the GRANITE extends its heartiest congratulations to Ernest Christensen.

ALFRED H. MILLER

In the realm of New Hampshire sporting circles the often mentioned name of "Al" Miller always carries with it a tone of popularity and friendship. Alfred H. Miller came to New Hampshire five years ago as an assistant coach to "Bill" Cowell, in football. Since that time his activities have grown to include positions as coach of the relay team and assistant coach of track. Coach Miller was a dependable back on the Harvard football teams of his undergraduate days; but not only was "Al" a letter man in this sport, but he also became a great indoor track sprinter for the Crimson. His selection to assist in football coaching and direct the relay team has proved to be a distinct asset to New Hampshire. The GRANITE extends its sincere congratulations to "Al" on his fine work at New Hampshire, and wishes him all possible success toward future coaching fame, which he unmistakably merits.

CAPTAIN ARTHUR LEARMONTH

Boston University 13 New Hampshire 6

For the first time in the history of the two universities, Boston University defeated New Hampshire 13-6. This was the opening game for the Wildcats, and quite naturally there was some raggedness and irregularity in the play.

Captain Clem of the Terriers was the individual star of the game, doing a great defensive job, and it was a touchdown in the third period that gave Boston their winning points.

New Hampshire was on the offensive throughout most of the first half, with Haphey, Wilson, and Graffam carrying the brunt of the attack, while McGowan also did some good running.

Clem took the opening kick-off of the second half on his fifteen yard line and raced through the entire New Hampshire team eighty-five yards for a touchdown. The Wildcats then opened up with power, with Haphey doing the tossing. Wilson scored one touchdown via the air route, and a second one was missed as one of the backs dropped a pass from Haphey in the end zone. The game was largely devoted to a kicking duel between Call, B. U. tackle, and Haphey, with the Wildcat having a slight edge. The Wildcats outplayed the Terriers but did not carry the necessary punch to score when deep in B. U. territory.

Under their new coach, Myles Lane, the Terriers exhibited a far better brand of both offensive and defensive football than they have shown for several seasons.

The Wildcats showed up well at times but exhibited many flaws and early season mistakes which were due in a large part to inexperience. These were gradually ironed out as the season progressed. The running attack failed to function as the interference did not open holes in the B. U. line, but Haphey's passing was the bright spot of the afternoon.

Harvard 40 - New Hampshire 0

Harvard defeated New Hampshire 40-0 in the second game of the season. The inexperienced Wildcats were no match for the heavy, powerful Crimson tide. Harvard's versatile attack ground out 22 first downs for a total of 476 yards. The Wildcat's attack was completely bottled up, with the exception of one run by Knox, and a few passes by Haphey. Captain Learmonth, Dunnan, and McKiniry played well in New Hampshire's line. Knox, making his debut in the backfield, and Haphey were the best of the Wildcat's backs. Crickard, Neven, Grady, and Locke starred on the attack for Harvard, while, of course, Hardy stood out in the Crimson line along with Hallowell, Boucraft, and Esterley.

The Crimson started right in to score in the first period, Crickard making the initial touchdown on a twisting, spectacular thirty yards run. Before the half was over a touchdown had been added by Nevin and Grady.

Harvard opened the second half by ripping through the Blue and White line and whirling around the ends with a dazzling exhibition of sheer power and speed. Locke scored a touchdown on a brilliant 70 yard dash through right tackle. Grady scored again. Pescoslido, sprint star, dashed around end for another Crimson score.

The Crimson showed great power and versatility in this game which they failed to live up to in later games. The timing and coordination of the Harvard offense was excellent, while their defense, especially against a running attack, was nearly impenetrable.

New Hampshire admittedly played a team out of her own class, and their showing can thus be excused. They put up a good defensive fight and for an early season game against such a powerful team, their attack worked fairly well.

Maine 7 - New Hampshire 7

A strong Maine team held New Hampshire to a 7-7 tie on Memorial Field October 15th. Maine had been the pre-game favorite, and their supporters were jubilant as they outrushed the Wildcats, three yards to one, and left the field at the end of the first half with the score, Maine 7, New Hampshire 0. But in the second half a rejuvenated Blue and White team took the field and kept the ball in Maine territory throughout the remainder of the game, scoring in the third period, and threatening on several occasions in the fourth quarter.

Knox kicked off for New Hampshire to open the game. After a first down Maine punted on their 48 yard line. The Bears were on the offensive throughout the quarter with only the inspired defensive play of Dunning and Knox, plus the punting of Haphey preventing a Pale Blue touchdown.

The second period was a repetition of the first with Romansky, Means and Wilson carrying the brunt of the Maine attack. Late in the period the Bears took to the air. A series of passes brought the Pine Tree Staters to the Wildcat eight yard line where the Maine attack stalled and Haphey punted out of danger. Almost immediately Maine threatened again; but the stubborn defense put up by the New Hampshire forward wall stopped Maine on the six yard line. New Hampshire took the ball on downs and Haphey punted out to the 35 yard line, which Means returned to the 24 yard marker. Means faded back and tossed a flat pass to Parsons for a six yard gain. Means passed to Wilson who went over for a touchdown. Wilson place-kicked the extra point to end the half.

Coach Cowell started his second string line at the opening of the second half. Maine kicked off and was awarded the ball on New Hampshire's 35 yard line. A furiously stubborn Wildcat defense took the ball at that point on downs. A few minutes later the Wildcats unleashed a drive which carried them from their own 40-yard line to the Maine 20 yard line where Maine won the pigskin on downs. An attempted end run was smeared by Sweetser and McKiniry. Learmonth and Wilde broke up an attempted tackle play and Means fell back to punt. Sweetser rose to the occasion, blocked that punt and fell on it on the Maine three yard line. Haphey went over for the touchdown, and place-kicked the tying point.

The fourth quarter was played almost entirely in Maine territory with New Hampshire in possession of the ball. All Wildcat hope for victory was smeared by a gallant Maine defense and the final whistle found the teams deadlocked.

New Hampshire 22 - Vermont 6

The University of New Hampshire won its first victory in four starts by defeating the Catamounts from the University of Vermont 22-6 on Homecoming Day.

The game was featured by New Hampshire's running attack that clicked for the first time during year, netting 243 yards. They also put up a good defense against Vermont's running attack, and their forward pass defense was better than in any previous game, as the Green and Gold were able to complete only four passes out of twenty-three attempts.

New Hampshire started right off with a bang, scoring a touchdown on the fifth play of the game—Haphey scoring from the sixteen yard line after a Vermont punt had been blocked and recovered by New Hampshire. Haphey also place-kicked the extra point. This ended the scoring in the first quarter, but the Wildcats spent the remainder largely in Vermont territory, much of which was due to the running of Haphey and McGowan.

Vermont scored early in the second period. After an exchange of kicks New Hampshire had the ball on her own ten yard line. A five yard penalty and losses on two running plays put the ball on the one yard line. Morgan, Vermont left tackle, broke through and blocked Haphey's attempted punt, and Berkley fell on the ball for a touchdown. Vermont was unable to do much offensively during the rest of the quarter, despite some brilliant running by Soba.

With the start of the second half the Wildcats began running wild with McGowan, Haphey and Knox carrying the brunt of the attack. McGowan finally scored from the ten yard line on a cut back through tackle. The try for a point was wide. A softy was added to the New Hampshire score when a blocked Catamount punt rolled over the end zone.

The final Wildcat score came in the fourth quarter when Clark made twenty-three yards through tackle, being stopped on Vermont's one yard stripe. On the next play Clark dove through the center of the line for a touchdown. The Catamounts then filled the air with football in a vain attempt to score, but Haphey intercepted a pass and ran seventy yards for a touchdown. The play was disallowed and New Hampshire was penalized twenty-five yards. However, Vermont was unable to score again.

New Hampshire 20 Lowell Textile 7

New Hampshire's next victory was over the previously undefeated team from Lowell Textile, 20-7. Lowell was outweighed nearly twenty pounds to the man, and this great disadvantage in weight figured largely in their defeat. The Wildcats piled up a total of twenty-seven first downs, gaining three hundred and seventy-two yards, largely due to their superior running attack. Lowell, on the other hand, made twelve first downs for two hundred and twenty-five yards. The Techmen, boasting one of the most deceptive passing attacks seen on the local gridiron this season, completely dominated the play during the second half.

New Hampshire scored two touchdowns in the first period as the result of sustained offensive drives, with Haphey, Knox, and McGowan the spearheads of the running attack. Knox scored the first touchdown on a plunge through the line, while Haphey scored the second on an off tackle play. The second goal line march was featured by McGowan's forty yard sprint around left end.

At the start of the second half the Wildcats again unleashed a terrific drive. Knox placed the ball on Lowell's twenty-three yard line after a twenty-six yard run. On the next play, a pass, Haphey to Graffam was ruled complete on the three yard line. Haphey scored on two line plays. This last score seemed to arouse Lowell, for with Captain Savard setting the pace, they kept the ball in New Hampshire territory the remainder of the game. Lowell scored early in the fourth quarter on a pass, Athanas to Jurewicz. The extra point was added on another pass, Athanas to Savard.

The superlative running and general play of Captain Savard and the deadly passing of Athanas were the highlights of Lowell's game. Haphey, Knox and McGowan dominated New Hampshire's offense, while the defensive work of Captain Learmonth, Dunnann, and Bachellor in the line was outstanding.

Dartmouth 25 - New Hampshire 0

The Wildcats lost their third game of the season to a weak Dartmouth team, 25-0, at Hanover. The game was much closer than the score would seem to indicate. The Blue and White put up a stubborn defense against the big Green's running attack, and it was only when Dartmouth took to the air that they were able to gain much ground. Dartmouth made twelve first downs, and New Hampshire nine.

Dartmouth scored early in the game after an exchange of punts. Starting on their own forty yard line, the big Green backs slashed and tore their way down the field to the two yard line from where Hedges bucked through the line for the first touchdown. A second Dartmouth drive was stopped as a pass into the end zone was knocked down by Haphey. The Wildcats carried the ball from their own twenty yard line to their forty-five yard line on two first downs.

The Big Green scored another touchdown in the second period. A New Hampshire pass was intercepted on the forty-five yard line, and the drive was on. On the next play, Stangle broke loose for thirty yards on a first down. Another first down put the ball on the seven yard line. Two plays put the ball on the two, and then Powers crashed through the line for a touchdown.

The third Dartmouth score came in the third period, also as a result of an intercepted pass. The combination of Hill to Powers which had been working well all day, had too many guns for the Wildcats. Hill tossed a long forward from the forty to Powers, standing on the fourteen, and Powers raced over the goal line.

The final score of the game came in the fourth quarter. The Hill to Powers passing attack had netted three first downs in succession, and the ball was on the thirteen yard line. Two line plays, and then Stangle lunged across the line for the fourth Dartmouth touchdown. The game ended a few minutes later, but not until Jaques completed a long forty yard pass to Moody for one of the outstanding plays of the game.

Springfield 12 - New Hampshire 7

Springfield College, in a hardfought game, defeated the Wildcats, 12 to 7. The Gymnasts, boasting one of the strongest teams they have had in recent years, were on the offense throughout most of the game, and consistently outplayed the Blue and White. Both teams featured an aerial attack in addition to the usual running plays.

The Gymnasts were the first to score, as they worked the ball deep into New Hampshire territory by means of a determined running attack, with Brown and Hawkes as the climax runners. The touchdown came as the result of a pass, Brown to Rogers, who scored standing up. Brown had faded far back when he let the ball go to his right end who was out in the clear. Hawkes failed to convert the extra point.

The second Springfield score came in the third period, as the Gymnasts unleashed an irresistible drive that carried them over half the length of the field. Hawkes went over the line on a smash through guard. Again the Springfield fullback failed to convert the extra point.

New Hampshire's only score came late in the final period, climaxing an offensive drive headed by McGowan and Knox. With the ball on Springfield's five yard line, Graffam tossed a pass to McGowan, in the end zone, for a touchdown. Haphey place-kicked the extra point. Another determined Wildcat offensive was halted by the final gun.

The inspiring line play of Quirk, star Gymnast center, featured the game. The offensive play of Hawkes, one of the east's high scorers, at fullback, and Captain Brown's work in the backfield were also outstanding. Sweetser and Dunnan in the line, and Graffam, McGowan, and Knox in the backfield played well for New Hampshire.

New Hampshire 43 - Connecticut 0

The Wildcats wound up a fairly unsuccessful football season by crushing a weak Connecticut Aggie team, 43-0. McGowan, his last game in the Blue and White uniform, turned in one of the best performances of his career. He carried the ball seventeen times for a total of 188 yards, an average of 11 yards a try. He scored three touchdowns and one point after for a total of nineteen points, nearly half the team's total. Captain Learmonth, Dunnan, and Vaughn who started his first game, were the outstanding linesmen in the field. The game was featured by the almost perfect mechanical play of the Wildcats.

New Hampshire took the offensive soon after the game opened with the ball on the Connecticut thirty yard line. Haphey tossed a pass to Vaughn on the Aggies' thirty yard line. McGowan swept around left end on a reverse, and crossed the goal line standing up. But the try for point after failed. After making one first down on the forty yard line, Pierce punted to Haphey, who returned the ball twenty-seven yards. A series of plays by Graffam, Knox, McGowan and Haphey gave New Hampshire a first down on Connecticut's eleven yard line. A fumble lateral gave the Nutmeggers possession of the ball on their own twenty yard line. Pierce's punt was blocked, and New Hampshire recovered on Connecticut's fourteen yard line. After a seven yard gain by McGowan, Haphey scored the second touchdown of the game.

The Wildcats started another drive early in the second quarter, after an exchange of punts. Graffam returned Pierce's punt twenty yards to Connecticut's thirty yard stripe, but this was nullified by a fifteen yard penalty for holding. The Nutmeggers made two first downs during this quarter and held the Wildcats scoreless.

New Hampshire started a determined defensive in the opening minutes of the second half as Haphey broke loose and raced sixty yards for a touchdown on a clever exhibition on broken field running. This was matched a few minutes later as McGowan broke away on his own eighteen yard line and galloped eighty-two yards to score. A determined Wildcat drive culminated in another touchdown as Jaques ducked through the line to score. McGowan added the extra point on a pass from Graffam. Another New Hampshire offensive ended as Connecticut took the ball on downs on their own four yard line.

The fourth period started out as a punting duel between Pierce and Jaques. After a fifteen yard penalty on Connecticut, New Hampshire started a drive which ended with a twelve yard touchdown run by Moody. McGowan was put back into the game and ran wild, adding another touchdown to his total.

CAPTAIN EUGENE GORMLEY

Basketball

Coach Swasey

New Hampshire enjoyed a moderately successful basketball season, winning nine games out of fourteen starts. Highlights of the season were victories over the strong Massachusetts State College, Boston University, and Springfield College quintets. Captain Gormley, at forward, was one of the outstanding players throughout the year, and the two sophomore guards, McKiniry and Walker, played consistently good basketball all season. Both Trzuskoski and Koehler flashed at times during the season, but they lacked the consistency and steadiness of the other members of the team. Captain Gormley and Koehler, the forwards, led the team in scoring as they each scored 106 points. McKiniry, guard, was third with 75, while Walker and Trzuskoski, guard and center respectively, were tied with 68 points each.

The Wildcats opened their season by handing Boston University a 47-32 beating at Boston. The game was close for the first period, and at half time the teams were deadlocked at fifteen all. But with Koehler leading the way, New Hampshire forged ahead early in the second half and built up an insurmountable lead. Koehler was the star of the game as he rang up a total of seventeen points to take high-scoring honors.

New Hampshire next lost a close game to the University of Vermont, 27-25. The Wildcats took the lead at the opening whistle and held a 13-7 advantage at half time. The Vermonters tied the score at the start of the second period, and from then until the final gun the lead was constantly changing hands. The final gun found the score tied at 25-25. Vermont won out as Taft, Vermont forward, made a basket in the five minute overtime period. Taft and Ramon, visiting forwards, were outstanding, as were Walker and Trzuskoski for New Hampshire.

Tufts handed the Blue and White a rather surprising defeat the following week, 35-30. New Hampshire had completely dominated the play during the first period, and at its conclusion was leading 18-8. However, the Wildcats were unable to maintain their fast pace during the second half, and the Jumbos, led by Grinnell, and Kavanaugh, stellar forward, tied the score, and then went on to win in the overtime. Gormley and Walker were outstanding for New Hampshire.

Northeastern made it three defeats in a row as they turned back the Wildcats, 28-27. Again the Wildcats set a fast pace for the first half, only to see victory snatched from their grasp as their opponents rallied late in the game. The play of Targonski and Trzuskoski featured the game.

New Hampshire turned back a highly touted quintet from Worcester Tech, 27-25. New Hampshire started right in to build up a lead and were leading 17-13 at halftime. Worcester rallied in the second half but were unable to outscore the Wildcats. Koehler, McKiniry, and Trzuskoski led the winner's attack.

Massachusetts State College brought a strong team to Durham, but they were overcome, 46-31, as the Wildcats turned in one of their best games of the year. The game was fast throughout, with neither team letting up in speed before the final gun. Bush, Massachusetts State forward, was high scorer with fourteen points, being followed by Koehler with twelve, and Walker and Trzuskoski with ten points each.

The Wildcats next journeyed to Connecticut where they defeated the Connecticut Aggies, 27-20. This game was featured by the strong defensive play of both teams. Targonski, Trzuskoski, and Gormley were outstanding for the Wildcats.

Providence College defeated the Wildcats before a large Carnival crowd, 35-27. The Friars were too fast and experienced for the Blue and White, holding the advantage throughout the contest. However, the Wildcats put up a game battle, and were within two or three points of the winners up to the last few minutes. Captain Gormley played one of the best games of his intercollegiate career as he scored thirteen points for the Wildcats.

Brown University was defeated in an overtime game at Providence, 48-44. This was a loosely played game with the defense of both clubs being practically negligible. Walker starred for the Wildcats scoring fifteen points.

New Hampshire came from behind in the closing minutes to defeat a strong Springfield College five, 36-34. Springfield started out at a fast clip and held a four point advantage at half time. They increased their lead at the start of the second half, and with less than three minutes left to play, were ahead, 33-27. Two baskets by McKiniry and one by Trzuskoski tied the score, and McKiniry won the game with a one-handed toss from near the foul line. McKiniry and Gormley starred for the winners, scoring ten and nine points respectively.

The Wildcats turned back a surprisingly strong Arnold College quintet, 43-36. Coach Swasey started his second team which was unable to stop Mantelli and Ikawitz, Arnold's long-shot specialists, from building up a five point lead at half time. With Gormley, McKiniry, and Morrissey leading the way, the Wildcats overcame Arnold's lead and went on to victory.

Lowell Textile's fast passing team handed the Wildcats a decisive 46-32 beating. Lowell took the lead at the opening whistle and remained ahead throughout the game. Athanas, brilliant Lowell forward, scored the amazing total of twenty-six points to lead his team's attack. Captain Gormley and Walker played well for the losers.

New Hampshire took a trip to Vermont, where they defeated Norwich, 26-25. The Wildcats led throughout most of the contest, but the Cadets rallied in the closing minutes to put their team in the lead. This was short lived, however, as Gormley shot the winning basket.

St. Michael's also fell before the Wildcats, 35-33. This was a fast, exciting game with neither team being able to build up any great lead. New Hampshire was ahead at the half, 18-15. St. Michael's second half rally was due, in the main, to Bozek, who was high scorer with eleven points. With less than two minutes to play the score was tied, and Koehler shot the winning basket.

The Wildcats closed their season by losing a close game to Massachusetts Institute of Technology, 29-28. This was a poorly played game, and the varsity turned in their worst showing of the season. M. I. T. took the lead at the start and held it during most of the game, except for a few minutes late in the final period. Captain Gormley, playing his last game for New Hampshire, turned in his usual sparkling performance, while McKiniry was the best of the remainder of the team.

Coach Swasey

No college can produce constantly winning teams in all branches of sport; each activity has its fat and lean years. Unfortunately, the 1932 baseball season turned out to be an off year for the Wildcats. Yet, despite the rather dull season in which New Hampshire won six games, lost seven, and tied one, the Blue and White outscored their opponents in the total runs of the spring, crossing the plate 59 times to 51 for their rivals.

The season opened at Worcester Tech where New Hampshire and the Bay State engineers battled to an 8 to 8 tie, braving a cold wind which cut the game to seven innings. Up to this point Coach Henry Swasey's proteges had had less than a week of actual practice. Opening its home season with Bates, the following week, New Hampshire won its first game of the season, 1 to 0. The usual Brackett field wind limited the contest to seven innings, and only in the final stanza when John Flannery doubled, bringing in Tower from first, did the game give any appearance of anything but a pitchers' duel—"Pick" Mann hurling nice ball for the home club.

Despite the fact that New Hampshire capitalized on all their hits as well as the lone error of their opponents, the Wildcats lost to Brown in the next game, 6 to 5, at Providence. An unfortunate wild pitch by "Tuck" White gave the Bears the winning run in the eighth; New Hampshire was out-hit nine to five, yet "Weed" Hanna opened the game with a home run.

That a winning ball team must not make errors was demonstrated on Brackett field the next week when the New Hampshire nine failed to back up good pitching by Johnny McGraw, and made no less than eight misdemeanors, throwing away the game to Providence College, 4 to 0.

On May tenth, at Boston, Northeastern University shut out the varsity, 2 to 0. Johnny McGraw continued his fine work on the mound, allowing only five hits. The Husky stickmen made the most of a lucky seventh inning, scoring twice to send the Wildcats back to Durham with three straight defeats.

Four days later the Blue and White nine found itself again on the short end of the score when the hard hitting Terriers of Boston University, driving out three home runs, had a field day, winning 12 to 3. Once again Coach Swasey's team lost mainly because of weakness at the bat.

Settling down to business, the Wildcats broke into the winning column in the next game, defeating Vermont, 3 to 2. Mal Chase drove a home run to deep center in the seventh, bringing in John Flannery ahead of him. Tuck White proved a hero in the fifth when he broke up a Vermont rally, and sent the Catamounts to the field after they had loaded the bases with no one out.

Facing a strong Tufts ball club, which contained a one man team in Hornig, who reaped all profits of the day with a single, triple, and homer, the Granite State team went down to defeat, 4 to 0.

Lowell Textile, on May twenty-first, defeated the varsity baseball nine, 3 to 2, at Lowell. Long John Flannery accounted for all the New Hampshire scores, pounding out a home run with Captain Smith on bases in the first inning. Lowell tied the score in the fourth, and won in the ninth when, with none out, a long single to right field brought the necessary tally.

Displaying unexpected punch and a periodical comeback, the Blue and White pounded out a 9 to 7 win over Bates at Lewiston a few days later. Gathering five runs in the third and four in the fifth, the varsity stickmen had a big afternoon. Mal Chase rapped out his second home run and the Wildcat for the second time demonstrated his supremacy over the Bobcat.

A second victory in a row was enjoyed by the varsity shortly after the Bates fracas when New Hampshire pinned a shutout on Connecticut Aggies, 8 to 0. "Tuck" White, twirling fine ball, was never in danger, and this coupled with six Nutmeg errors, and a big day with the stick for Chase, Hanna, and Mitchell proved the undoing for the visitors. In a true pitchers' duel, which forced the game to ten innings, the varsity went down to Mass. State the next week and lost a heartbreaker, 1 to 0. Johnny McGraw pitched excellently on the Blue and White mound allowing only four hits but fate proved a hard master as a freak bouncing ball over "Weed" Hanna's head with two out in the tenth brought the much needed run to State.

In next to the final game of the season the Wildcats went on the warpath and easily scalped Newport Naval Training School on Brackett field, 18 to 1. New Hampshire slammed eight hits for eight runs in the fourth inning, seven of them in succession, before a single put-out was made by the Naval Boys; Mal Chase and "Weed" Hanna led the Granite State batters as Coach Henry Swasey used his entire team in the fray which netted them 24 hits.

John McGraw won a pitchers' battle with Howie Whitmore on June 11, as the New Hampshire ball club backed up his splendid twirling to send the Harvard Grads down to defeat, 2 to 1. Approximately 500 alumni, returning for the 62nd Commencement, watched Long John Flannery drive out a double in a ninth inning rally bringing home "Weed" Hanna to score a victory for the Wildcats over the Crimson nine which had defeated the Yale varsity just a few days before, and thus close the ball season for 1932.

Coach Christensen

A new epoch in New Hampshire athletic history was inaugurated April 23, 1932 when, for the first time, an official varsity lacrosse team represented the University, opening the new sport with a victory over M. I. T. at Cambridge, 2 to 1. In two previous years of workouts and practice games with teams of neighboring colleges, the Wildcats, coached by Ernest Christensen, had succeeded in building up a team good enough to represent New Hampshire on the lacrosse field. The victory over the Engineers gave the followers of this old Indian game an auspicious start for a successful opening season in which three games were won and four lost.

On Mother's Day, April 30, New Hampshire opened its home season on Memorial field against a far superior team of the Boston Lacrosse Club. Despite Dave Wark's goal, and commendable cage guarding by Charlie Dolloff, the Blue and White men were not able to combat against, or use, the perfect man-to-man defense system which enabled the visitors to secure an 8 to 1 victory. At Cambridge, the next week, the varsity found itself up against the smart and shifty Harvard Lacrosse team. Though showing improvement, New Hampshire's defense was still weak, and the fast Crimson aggregation, backed by a large number of capable substitutes, had little trouble in winning, 12 to 1.

For the third successive game the varsity faced a team out of its class when the Brown lacrosse men descended on Durham, a week later, and dominated the entire game, winning from an improved Wildcat team, 10 to 2. From the opening gun to the echo of its final report Coach Christensen's men put up a ripping good fight but the better play of the visitors gave them a well deserved victory. One should keep in mind that the art of handling the crosse is far different from any other sport which the athlete usually tackles in high and prep school sport, and no craft of any worth can be mastered in a day.

Steady improvement, at last, brought satisfying results, and the lacrosse team came home from Boston the next week enjoying a 4 to 0 victory over Boston University. "Flash" Martineau, making furious onslaughts on the Pioneers' goal, led the Wildcats all through the game which was played under a very hot sun. Coach Christensen was able to use many reserves, for New Hampshire outplayed their rivals consistently throughout.

Playing their most sensational game of the season, the Blue and White lacrosse team, led by Captain George Pridham, met and conquered Tufts on Memorial field on May 21, in grand style, 8 to 5. Tufts scored first, and the Wildcats became a bit saucy. Immediately a counter attack was launched which proved so powerful that, for the greater part of game, the ball was in action around the Jumbo cage. Stewart Chaloner played an alert game, and scored when the opportunity presented itself, getting three shots past the enemy goalie. John Vaughn followed with two goals, Ray Chaloner, Don Penley, and Jeremiah Morrissey each adding an additional count.

Springfield College journeyed to Durham on June 3, and brought to a close the varsity lacrosse season, defeating New Hampshire in an interesting and fast contest, 5 to 2. The Gymnasts were represented by a strong combination which had previously eliminated both Amherst and Wesleyan. They earned a well-deserved victory.

Thus closed the first lacrosse season at New Hampshire as an official varsity sport. All in all, both the team, Captain Pridham, and Coach Christensen are to be congratulated on the results of this first year. The team played a harder and longer schedule than had been the case in the two previous years when lacrosse was being tested out by the Wildcats. To win three out of four games against colleges in their same class is all one could possibly expect under normal conditions. From the opening game to the end of the Springfield crash, the men showed constant improvement, and Coach Christensen was able to give the underclassmen and substitutes ample opportunity for experience. The dawn of a winning Blue and White team has arrived on the lacrosse horizon.

Coach Sweet

On the cinder track New Hampshire enjoyed another successful season, for although the team was not able to retain its New England championship crown, won in 1931, it did win all of its dual meets, save one, and brought the season to a thrilling and highly triumphant climax by conquering the 1932 New England champs, Boston College, on Memorial field in a brilliant victory.

When Coaches Paul Sweet and Al Miller issued the call for track candidates early in the spring they found that out of 18 lettermen of the 1931 team, only seven had been unclaimed by graduation and of these, the holder of the University shot put record, Learmonth, would be unable to compete due to an old football injury not yet mended. With Whitehouse, Captain Noyes, Hanley, and deMoulpied as a nucleus, the coaches set to work. After less than three weeks of steady practice, Coach Sweet found his Wildcats only partially ready to face the first test of the year against Northeastern. Before a small gallery which braved the wintry winds which swept over Memorial field, the Granite State team just nosed out the Huskies 69 to 66 by virtue of Hanley's winning javelin throw.

Brown proved easy for the New Hampshire track men the following Saturday when on Memorial field, the Wildcats completely dominated the Bears, winning by the sizeable score of 90 1-3 to 44 2-3.

Following the interscholastic track meet of May 7, the powerful Blue and White team capped the events of an exciting day by decisively defeating Bates. "Kick" Noyes, the New Hampshire captain and star, set a new record in the mile run, being clocked at four minutes and 27 seconds. After the dust had settled, the Garnet from Maine found itself on the short end of a 88 to 47 score.

May 20th and 21st saw the Wildcats at Providence attempting in vain to maintain their record as New England champions. In competition with a very strong field, New Hampshire was unable to weather a storm of attack which lowered the Wildcats from the King position to a tie for seventh place with Springfield who had likewise 11 points.

The Gymnasts journeyed from Springfield to Durham the following Saturday and forced New Hampshire to its utmost in an exciting day both on the cinders and in the field. With first one team and then the other on the top end of the score, the outcome of the meet hung in the balance of the javelin throw. With victory almost in New Hampshire's grasp, Foot-rick of Springfield surprised himself by uncorking a fine heave which took first place and gave the meet to the Gymnasts, 69 to 66.

Boston College, newly crowned New England champs, received a severe set back on Memorial field, June 4th, when a powerful New Hampshire team, clicking well in every event, closed another brilliant season piling up 76 points to 59 for the Eagles. Noyes, Wildcat Captain, was the hero of the afternoon. After winning the 440, the gallant "Kick" broke the tape in the 880 for a new record of 1 minute 56 and 3-5 seconds.

When the total scores of all the meets had been averaged it was found that Whitehouse, hurdler, had been the most consistent point gainer for New Hampshire with a season total of 51. Noyes followed closely with 47; Hanley, weight man, with 39; Gibbons, dash man, with 24; and deMoulpied, the distance star, with 31.

Cross Country

Coach Sweet

After one of the most successful cross country seasons at the University of New Hampshire in many years, the undefeated Wildcat harrier team, for the second year in succession, stands unchallenged as the New England cross country champion.

Coach Paul Sweet, popular among all Wildcat athletes, trackmen or otherwise, deserves a great deal of credit for this successful season, while Captain "Bill" Benedict, the star runner of the team, also merits a large share of praise for his work in staying behind in most races, cheering his team mates on toward the goal, losing victory for himself that quite likely he would have won, but gaining the team victory and glory for New Hampshire. The outstanding members of the team which swept through Northeastern, Maine, M. I.

T., Dartmouth, Harvard, and the Army, include: Henry Raduazo, Elton Glover, "Bill" Andberg, "Ted" Darling, "Howie" Rines, "Ed" Blood, "Ken" Reardon, Fred Murray, "Dick" Low, and Howard Brooks.

At the start of the season, Coach Sweet's hopes of an undefeated harrier team faded when it became known that Dave deMoulpiéd, last year's captain, would be unable to run at all during the fall due to an aggravated leg injury. Left with four lettermen, Blood, Low, Andberg, and Benedict, Coach Sweet set to work to revamp his hill and dalers. Three sophomores, Elton Glover, "Howie" Rines, and "Ted" Darling, bolstered the team, and all developed into first class runners before the season's end.

Thus prepared, the New Hampshire harriers met Northeastern's cross country team on the Franklin Park course at Boston, October 8th, and with a perfect score easily ran away with the honors, 15 to 45. The following Saturday, Coach Sweet's proteges, with apparent ease, defeated University of Maine hill and dalers on the home course, 17 to 41. Benedict, wearing his black derby, Raduazo, and Andberg, finished hand-in-hand for first place for the Wildcats, pleasing the large crowd gathered in the grand stand to witness the New Hampshire vs. Maine football game.

The following week-end saw New Hampshire defeat Harvard and Dartmouth in a three cornered race with 23 points for the Blue and White, 32 for the Crimson, the Green trailing with 101. Captain Benedict finished second to Captain Foote, the Harvard flash, in this hill and dale classic which gives New Hampshire the singular honor of being the only team to conquer Harvard in a duel or triangular cross-country meet in seven years—the Wildcats achieving this goal in 1928 and again this season. Continuing their dominance over New England colleges, the Wildcat harriers ran M. I. T. into the ground, 17 to 42.

On November 7th, on a rain-soaked Franklin Park course, the New Hampshire harriers led a fast field of runners over the five mile distance and by a decisive margin again maintained their superiority over all New England. The Wildcat score of 31 stood alone, Bowdoin finishing second with 92. Raduazo led the Blue and White, finishing second, with Andberg fifth, Darling sixth, Glover eighth, and Benedict tenth.

The final victory of the year, and the one most eagerly sought after, was that earned at West Point at the expense of the Army harriers. The invaders from the Granite State won by the close score of 26 to 29 thus establishing themselves as one of the better teams of the East and one of the few teams boasting an undefeated record.

Boxing

Coach Reed

New Hampshire's boxing team enjoyed a mediocre season, marked by two defeats, two ties, and two victories. It was the sort of season in which one could not be sure just what the outcome of the bouts might be, thus making the sport more interesting. Probably the defeat which Coach Pal Reed's boys handed to a hitherto undefeated Harvard group of glovemen was the crowning success of the winter, although the bouts with Penn State proved to be as good in all respects, with the exception of the final count.

The Wildcats were not favored with an auspicious beginning for the ring season. At Annapolis, January 28th, the Navy pugilists lived up to the name and out-boxed and out-fought the visiting team from the Granite State, and sent the invading team back to the "Old Man of the Mountain" with a sad story of a defeat— $7\frac{1}{2}$  for the "Tars,"  $1\frac{1}{2}$  for the Wildcats. Frank McGrath, local 175 pound lefty, saved the New Hampshire team from a whitewash by fighting his opponent to a draw by virtue of a strong third round comeback.

Encouraged by an enthusiastic crowd for their Durham debut, a rejuvenated Wildcat team surprised optimistic followers, February 4, by a  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to  $2\frac{1}{2}$  victory over the U. S. Coast Guard Academy. As result, two new boxing stars appeared on the varsity club: "Mugs" McGrath and Fred Moody. McGrath kept Cadet Lathrop harrassed for three rounds, and displayed a terrific left which usually found its mark; Moody, in the 165 pound class, the sensation of last year's yearling team, proved himself a real boxer, easily knocking out Cadet Tighe in the second round. Paul Dearborn, letterman and later elected captain, after going down for the count of eight in the first round of his battle, came back strong in the last two rounds and soundly defeated his opponent. Lincoln, for the first varsity victory of his career, defeated Cadet Welch.

At New Haven, February 11th, New Hampshire fought to a  $3\frac{1}{2}$ - $3\frac{1}{2}$  tie with the Yale leather-pushers, forcing the Blue and White of Connecticut all the way for seven rounds which finally ended in a draw. Ed Lincoln, opening the bouts, was forced to a draw by his 115 pound adversary. "Snapper" Dearborn soon found how to handle his opponent, and put the Yale 125 pounder in the land of dreams early in the second round. However, "Andy" McCaughey met stiffer opposition, and the count stood one and a half all. Scanlon was less fortunate than some others who were vanquished on that afternoon, for the second round ended when the Yale boxer found his mark and landed a haymaker on the Wildcat's nose, putting him sound asleep for many 10's of seconds. "Connie" Ahern, slightly ired by such treatment, battered and pounded his way to victory in the 155 pound class; the 165 pound bout was forfeited to the Blue and White of New Hampshire; and the visitors stood one to the good. "Mugs" McGrath fared as did Scanlon, for he, likewise, was stretched on the canvas for the count as the Yale 175 pounder saved the day for his team, bringing the bouts to a tie score.

The powerful Penn State boxing team was the guest of the varsity in the local ring on February 18th, and their trip was not without success, for Coach Pal Reed's mittmen were forced to bow to the visitors, 4 to 3. The Penn team reaped victories in the opening bouts, but Moody and McGrath again proved their metal and carried the final classes. Lincoln lost to Miller, the Penn State bantamweight, in the opener by decision. Napoleon pounded out a close win over Captain Dearborn in the next bout. McCaughey fought to a draw in the third battle, and when victory seemed within his grasp the Penn fighter staged a third round comeback for a tie. The experienced Penn fighter, Capt. John McAndrews, found little trouble in "Bill" Lucinski of the Wildcats, winning by a technical kayo in the second round. The Blue and White pugilist fought to the best of his ability, but could not master the superior boxing talent of his opponent. "Connie" Ahern, and Kessler of the visitors pounded each other for three rounds in a fight that ended with a draw for the 155 pound class. Then came the real battle of the day between New Hampshire's Wildcat, Fred Moody, and "Tom" Slusser of Penn State. Moody's boxing was far superior throughout the whole fight, but Slusser proved a game and worthy opponent, and kept his head sufficiently to keep from going down for the count. The crowd gave both pugilists a terrific ovation at the end of the third round—Moody for his victory, and Slusser for his stamina and grit. McGrath, in like manner, for the most of six minutes, kept his opponent on the defense in a one-sided 175 pound battle. Like the previous bout, McGrath won easily but could not kayo his man.

Scoring their first upset of the winter, New Hampshire's boxers marred the Harvard team's boxing record in the University ring before a capacity crowd on the evening of February 22nd by giving the Crimson their first set-back in a crushing 5 to 2 defeat. Harvard was able to score but one victory as Hines continued his winning streak by defeating Ahern, and Moody did likewise by defeating the "wind-mill" Simonian on a technical knockout. "Ed" Lincoln was outstanding in his victory over Curtin of Harvard who, up till that night, had never lost a bout in three years of varsity competition. Captain Dearborn staged a comeback after being knocked down in the opening round to win his bout. McCaughey, exhibiting a good counter-attack, defeated Wadsworth of Harvard in a very close match. Sullivan of the Crimson battled Philbrick to a draw. "Mugs" McGrath and Capt. "Ted" Cooper of the Crimson battled to a draw in the final and best bout of the day. McGrath built up a sizeable lead in the opening round and was able to successfully keep his edge in the second round. Cooper opened with a powerful attack in the third but the Wildcat entry very capably held up his own end of the battle, and the referee decreed a draw.

On March 11th the Wildcats closed their boxing season with a 3 to 3 tie with Springfield in the local ring. Knockouts were the order of the day with both teams having two members taking the rout for defeat in this order. Both Captain Paul Dearborn and Capt. Cannell of the visitors fighting their last bouts in the collegiate ring, closed their careers with knockouts. Moody, as usual, took care of his opponent in routine manner with a kayo. "Don" Dunnan, sportingly agreed to fight in place of McGrath in these bouts, and though a letter man of the preceding year, was a bit rusty and lost to Captain-elect Lugenbehl by a technical knockout.

Once again lack of ice proved the nemesis for the New Hampshire hockey team, yet despite the fact that the players saw "the hand-writing on the wall" almost before the season began, they carried through the schedule of games and improved last year's record by winning one game.

The Wildcats opened their hockey season at Providence, where, in a fast, tight game, the Brown Bears emerged victorious, 3 to 0. Regardless of the score, the contest proved that New Hampshire had good material merely awaiting to be developed.

At Durham, the following day, New Hampshire faced the Bowdoin hockey club. In the opening minutes a Bowdoin wing soloed down the ice and outguessed the goalie, giving the Maine team a one point edge and later a 1 to 0 victory. The Wildcats outplayed Bowdoin the greater part of the game but were unable to crack a stubborn Polar Bear defense.

One week later, at Amherst, New Hampshire came through with flying colors. Despite poor ice, Bacheller and White drove in two goals from the blue line for a Wildcat victory over Mass. State, 2 to 1. "Jim" Steffy's return to the team after illness bolstered the offense, and Congdon starred in the Blue and White cage where he made several remarkable saves.

On January 28th, Bates invaded the New Hampshire stronghold with success, emerging from the fray with a 4 to 1 victory. "Jim" Steffy opened the scoring for the Wildcats, but Secor, giant Bobcat, proved the Waterloo for New Hampshire by figuring in all plays and scoring individually.

Despite the final score, a superior New Hampshire hockey club met the Army at West Point and on very fast ice defeated itself by accidentally driving in two of Army's goals as The Academy won, 4 to 3. Many of the players considered the contest the best of the season. It was the first time that Army has beaten the Wildcats in hockey.

Northeastern administered the first severe setback of the winter February 8th, when New Hampshire was buried 6 to 0 by the Huskies. Newspaper write-ups of the game commented on the fact that while the greater part of the play occurred around the Boston team's cage, lack of practice held up the Wildcats from functioning properly at crises when goals should have been scored.

Captain "Ted" Nowak, playing his final game for the Blue and White, led the Wildcats in an aggressive attack which momentarily caught Boston University unawares, on the 24th, but was unable to curb a rising Pioneer tide which eventually brought defeat, 6 to 1. Bacheller scored the only New Hampshire goal.

A team which has had at best only intermittent practice, can hardly be blamed for defeats at the hands of opponents who have indoor rinks at their disposal for steady practice. If one views the Wildcat record in this light, rather than numerically, the hockey season will appear more successful.

CAPTAIN EDWARD BLOOD

Winter Sports

Coach Sweet

In Winter Sports, where New Hampshire is distinguished in having a team that is recognized as one of the most powerful in the East, and in having for its captain an Olympic star, and one of the best college ski jumpers of that nation, Edward J. Blood, the Wildcats had another reasonably successful season, winning one meet and taking a second and third in two others.

In the College Week Competitions held at Lake Placid, December 29th and 30th, January 1st and 2nd, the New Hampshire team, led by Captain Blood, retained the President Harding team trophy, and the Marshall Foch individual ski jumping trophy. The competition opened with the downhill ski race, in which Burke of Ottawa nosed out Blood in an exciting race. Dartmouth fulfilled all predictions in the skating events, gaining a first and fourth in the figure skating, and sending two men over the line for the first and second skating places in the two mile race. A disagreement between certain competitors and the officials in the 440 yard skating event, resulted in the race being classed as not held. Bill Andberg, New Hampshire's dependable and all important point gainer on the snowshoes, with Blood, finished first and fourth respectively, in the two mile snowshoe race. Andberg was a defending champion in this event.

The most prominent and spectacular event of the competition—the ski jump—was the final activity of this meet. Ed Blood was the defending champion and holder of the Marshall Foch trophy. Here Blood proved his superiority by winning the event in two jumps in almost perfect form. Poor snow conditions forced three events to be cancelled and as a result no official award as the winner of the meet was made. At the close of the competition of those events held, New Hampshire was in the lead with 20 points, Dartmouth second with 17, followed by Ottawa with 10, Maine 3, McGill 3, and Williams 2.

At the Dartmouth Carnival, February 10th and 11th, New Hampshire was forced to be contented with a second place for Dartmouth, on its home ground, was invincible and scored 52½ points to 39 for Coach Paul Sweet's boys. Winning three first places and piling up an individual score of 19 points, Captain Blood was the hero of the entire week-end both for New Hampshire followers and spectators as well. In the Friday competition, Dartmouth came through "on schedule" in the ice events, taking the first two places in the 440 and two mile skating races where Johnny Shea, the Olympic star, shone for Dartmouth, and in the figure skating where Wakefield, captain of the Green team, won the event for the fourth consecutive time. Downs and Chase both scored for New Hampshire in the speed races taking the last two places.

It was on Saturday that Blood began his brilliant performance which netted him almost unanimous approval and praise by the sports writers of New York and Boston papers. Entering the slalom, the invincible Wildcat hero swept through the field and took first. From here Blood went to the ski jump. Displaying perfect form and technic and getting excellent distance on his jumps, the Blue and White captain easily vanquished his Green rivals and came out on top an easy victor with 219 points for first. As snow conditions were poor, the rest of the competition for the day was postponed until Sunday. Accordingly, the first event of the following day was the down hill ski race. Down the mile course the competitors raced against time. Emerson of Dartmouth took first; Blood came through with a second, and the Green took third and tied for fourth. The next event, the two mile snowshoe race, was won by Bill Andberg who performed in his usual first class style and left all competitors far behind. Seventy-five yards to the rear two more Blue and White snowshoers, McLeod and Webster, hove in sight, and crossed the finish line to take the next two places. In the 14 kilometer ski race, Blood had the misfortune to lose his glasses when part way over the course and thus hampered was able to only win a fourth place. In this event the New Hampshire captain was the defending champion and had not bad luck thus beset him, would likely have retained his crown. In the combined event composed of the 14 kilometer ski race and the ski jump, Blood was declared the winner thus giving him three first places, a second, and a fourth.

Misfortune played a prominent part in New Hampshire's downfall at Lucerne-in-Quebec, February 17th to 19th, where in the I. W. S. U. Championships, the Wildcats were forced down to third place as McGill, Dartmouth took second and first respectively. Despite a 197 foot jump in the trials, Blood lost the ski jump when he fell. Bad luck continued to follow the Blue and White at this meet, for in the slalom, Blood missed a flag and thus lost out. Jim Trachier and Bob Downs both added many points to the team's score. Bill Andberg completed an undefeated season winning the two mile shoe race to retain his title of the Canadian Cross-Country Snowshoe Champion.

CAPTAIN GUY MANN

Relay

Coach Miller

Once again New Hampshire was represented at the big indoor winter track meets held at the Boston Garden, and the Madison Square Garden, by its unofficial relay team. Our Wildcats had a good team but were unfortunate to be classed against the crack Boston College and Northeastern relay men in every race, and were forced to be content with second places.

In the opening meet at the Prout Games, held in the Boston Garden, January 28th, New Hampshire sent down a relay team including Warren Pike, Guy Mann, William Benedict, and Theodore Darling. The Wildcats were matched against a veteran Boston College team which won the relay by about 15 yards in the slow time of 3 minutes, 32 and 3-5 seconds; New Hampshire was clocked at 3 minutes, 34 seconds. Pike, the Blue and White lead-off man, had the pole and turned over a lead which

B. C. overcame in the next two laps. Ted Darling, sophomore anchor man, running his first varsity race, turned in the fastest time on the team.

At the Prout games, New Hampshire had several individual competitors entered; among these Cunningham was outstanding, when he qualified for the finals in the N. E. A. A. U. 300 meter championship run.

New Hampshire's relay team journeyed to New York the next week where the Wildcats were slated to run against Northeastern and Temple in the 1600 meter relay. Despite the fact that Pike ran one of the best board races of his career to hand over a lead, New Hampshire lost ground due to poor baton work, and Northeastern crept to the front. Darling again ran the fastest time for the Blue and White, and in a splendid race closed the gap considerably, crossing the line just two yards behind the Husky anchor man; incidentally Temple finished half a lap to the rear. Northeastern's time was 3 minutes 27 and 8-10 seconds; New Hampshire's 3 minutes and 28 seconds. Northeastern's club proved to be very strong and well balanced, but New Hampshire forced the Huskies to do their utmost for victory.

Back to Boston the next week, at the Garden for the B. A. A. games, the relay team again faced the Huskies, and again they defeated the Wildcats. Pike proved himself a good lead off man, and Benedict kept New Hampshire in the race, but the Husky's last two runners proved the Wildcat's undoing, and Northeastern's anchor man broke the tape for victory at 3 minutes 28 and two-fifths seconds.

In the N. E. A. A. U. 40 meter dash, held in conjunction with the B. A. A. school boy meet, Cunningham and Bannon, performing for individual honors, qualified for the finals but were unable to take a place.

Once again the relay team saw action, this time at the University Club games held at the Boston Garden, February 18. These games sponsor the New England Intercollegiate Indoor Track Meet each winter. Warren Pike, defending champion and record holder in the broad jump, was forced to take second in the jump which was included in the afternoon events, held at the Harvard cage in Cambridge. As the broad jump event progressed, Pike led with a jump of 22 feet 8 and 3-8 inches, until McNally of Holy Cross, on his last jump, was measured for 22 feet 11 inches, to take first place, and the 1933 championship.

The relay team was listed to race Boston College and Maine. Coach Miller changed the order of his runners at this race, and "Pick" Mann led off. Unfortunately, he was classed against the two best men of the opposing teams, and he was forced to run third. In the third leg, with B. C. leading, and the Black Bears trailing second, Benedict cut down the lead of the Maine team so that when Warren Pike received the baton, he was able to pass the Pine Tree State anchor man and take second place with a five yard lead. The swift B. C. club won with a walk-away, finishing 30 yards ahead of New Hampshire.

In the individual competition, aside from Pike's work in the broad jump, Gordon Cunningham, New Hampshire's dash man, again turned in a good day's work by qualifying for the 50 yard dash. It is to be noted that New Hampshire is classed in class A in the games. This means that the Wildcats were in competition with all the larger New England schools: Yale, Boston College, Holy Cross, Harvard, and Dartmouth. Other individual entries of New Hampshire included Bannon and Clark in the dashes; Levensaler and Arthur Pike in the 45 yard high hurdles; Bertelsen in the high jump; Murray and de-Moulpied in the middle distances; and Manning in the weight events.

Bill Benedict, former relay flash, returned to the boards this season after a long lay-off, and again proved a good performer. During the season he was the most consistent Blue and White runner, and improved steadily—climaxing his season by turning in the fastest time of the team in the University Club games. Warren Pike also deserves praise for his splendid work on the boards, where as lead off, and later, anchor man he turned over and cut down leads to be decidedly instrumental in New Hampshire's races.

Intramural Sports

The purpose of intramural sports manifests itself in two ways: it brings into activities those not engaged in varsity competition and also brings members of various fraternities into contact with each other, thereby tending to promote good will and sportsmanship. The purposes seem to be fulfilled here at New Hampshire. Intramural events are always hotly contested by the various fraternities and the competition for the much desired all-point trophy is particularly close. It is our aim to give as much recognition as possible to the fraternities which are aiding, not only themselves, but the entire University by giving their time to intramural sports, fulfilling the purposes enumerated above. In order to give this recognition, we will try to describe each sport which has been run off since last fall, concluding with the present standings of the fraternities.

The Intramural basketball season was divided into two leagues, teams in each individual league meeting each other once. At the close of the schedule Phi Delta Upsilon won in their league. The race in the other league was very interesting. At the close of the schedule there was a triple tie between Theta Chi, Alpha Tau Omega, and Phi Mu Delta. This tie necessitated a play-off from which Theta Chi emerged victorious with the other two teams in tie for second place. Theta Chi won the championship when the inter-league play-off was held.

The relay event was run off by the process of elimination. Theta Kappa Phi met Lambda Chi Alpha in a thrilling final race which was won by the latter in the fast time of 1:37.5

Intramural boxing has always been a favorite with the student body and this past season has been no exception, the gym being crowded with spectators who watched all the bouts. The 115 pound class was won by Tiun of Phi Mu Delta, 125 pound class by Lucinski of Kappa Sigma, 145 pound class by Philbrick of Alpha Tau Omega, 155 pound class by Osgood of Phi Delta Upsilon, and in the 175 pound class there was a tie between Morse of Lambda Chi Alpha and Tuxbury of Phi Delta Upsilon. The final accounting of points showed Pi Kappa Alpha to be the winner with Phi Mu Delta second.

After several attempts to run off the intramural hockey schedule, this sport was finally given up due to climatic conditions. It was impossible to get ice on the intramural rink.

It was, at first, decided to hold the intramural sports competition in conjunction with the Winter Carnival, but here again inclement weather interfered and only the skating events were run off as scheduled. The other events were held at McNutt's hill during the next week with Theta Chi as winner and Alpha Tau Omega second.

Bowling was divided so that each league contained an equal number of fraternities and a schedule was adopted and followed through. Theta Kappa Phi and Lambda Chi Alpha each won in its league. These two fraternities met in a play-off from which Lambda Chi Alpha emerged as University champions.

As we have pointed out, due credit should be given to all the fraternities for cooperating with the athletic department to make intramural sports a success, and it certainly does take a lot more sportsmanship to be a loser than to be a winner. We would have it understood that the true purpose of this list of the standings is published, not altogether with the purpose of lauding the leaders, although credit for their accomplishments is due them. To show those interested in intramural competition how the fraternities stand as they swing into the last stages of the intramural year, the list of standings follows:

Theta Chi . . . . .	219
Lambda Chi Alpha . . . . .	216.5
Alpha Tau Omega . . . . .	210.5
Kappa Sigma . . . . .	193
Phi Delta Upsilon . . . . .	170.5
Theta Kappa Phi . . . . .	167.5
Phi Mu Delta . . . . .	163.5
Pi Kappa Alpha . . . . .	111.5
Alpha Kappa Pi . . . . .	106
Sigma Alpha Epsilon . . . . .	89
Tau Kappa Epsilon . . . . .	88
Theta Upsilon Omega . . . . .	68
Alpha Gamma Rho . . . . .	51.5
Phi Alpha . . . . .	27.5
Delta Epsilon Pi . . . . .	25

In closing it might be well to explain that intramural competition is run off according to the point system. In other words, each fraternity receives a certain number of points for entering a team and receives points for the place it takes in each sport. This is a further exemplification of the principle of recognizing the efforts of all those engaged in competition instead of just the winners. It might be well to state that with only tennis, track, baseball and swimming left to be run off, the future promises to be a furious race for possession of the all-point trophy this year.

Freshman Football

Although it got off to a slow start, the New Hampshire freshman football team gathered headway as the season passed, accumulating a surprising amount of latent power, sufficient to close the fall sport with two important victories over Andover, and Brown freshmen. Altogether, the team scored 54 points as against 46 for their scheduled opponents, but were unfortunate to only break even on the game record, 3 to 3. Throughout the season the frosh were led by their outstanding tackle, Milton Johnson, whom they elected captain on the eve of the game against Brown; yet in the backfield Charlie Joslin was perhaps the most outstanding for his exceptional field running which netted the yearlings many valuable yards.

Coach Lundholm

In the opening game of the year with Phillips Exeter, the freshmen found themselves up against a superior team and were forced to end up on the short end of a 14 to 6 score, Joslin scoring for the frosh. In the first home game of the fall, Toolin, freshman, saved the day by breaking a deadlocked game with a field goal for a 3 to 0 Kitten victory. Dartmouth, the following Saturday, proved too strong for the freshmen who fought desperately against the Green's powerful reserves to lose, 12 to 0. The freshmen surprised many local fans the following week-end by out-playing a strong St. Anselm's College team on Memorial field, but losing, due to the only break of a tight game which St. Anselm's converted into a score, 7 to 0. Taking Phillips Andover entirely by surprise, the Kittens ran up 14 points in the first ten minutes of play, and this lead proved sufficient for the second victory of the season, 27 to 13. In the last game of the season, the Kittens again surprised even the most optimistic fans by routing a strong Brown freshman team, 19 to 0, on Memorial field. Captain Johnson appeared particularly good as a leader while every member of the team outdid himself to secure a final and outstanding victory of the fall. In a post season game the frosh were unable to weather the attack of a larger sophomore eleven, and were vanquished by their rivals, 14 to 0.

Freshman Basketball

Despite the fact that their season's record appears uneventful, the freshman basketball team is to be complimented on its showing. In almost every game the Kittens were forced to compete against a team which had the decided advantage of size, and seldom were the freshmen able to get the jump. Yet Coach Lundholm's midget team defeated all their college freshmen opponents and reached a season's climax by conquering the hitherto undefeated New Hampton five, which had won ten straight games, 36 to 35. The outstanding members of the team, which was captained by the scrappy Charlie Joslin, includes Rogers, Ranchynoski, Bronstein, Robinson and Ahern.

At Boston, in the opener, the yearlings eeked out a 33 to 32 win over the Boston University freshmen. Both Joslin and Bronstein starred for the Kittens in this encounter. The first home game of the winter proved a success when the Kittens, led by Ranchynoski, who gathered 18 points, soundly trounced M. I. T. frosh, 44 to 30. The Tilton School five proved a master of the freshmen the following week with a 37 to 27 score, upsetting the Kittens for the first time. Gaining power and keener shooting eyes as the game wore on, the Kent's Hill basketball team came from behind to vanquish the Kitten five the following week, 35 to 31. Though rangy and towering the Kittens at every post, Nichols Junior College proved weak as the next game was won by the Blue and White freshmen, 35 to 22. Exeter, however, proved too strong for the freshmen, and despite Bronstein's individual score of 10 points, conquered the Kittens, 31 to 22. In a tight game which was fought tooth and nail all the way by both teams, the Blue and White frosh nosed out the powerful New Hampton team the following week, 36 to 35. Last minute baskets by a rangy but smooth working Hebron team brought victory to the Maine club in the final game of the season for the freshmen, 34 to 32. Ben Bronstein again distinguished himself by caging 17 points.

Freshman Hockey

When all facts are considered, the freshman hockey season will stand out perhaps as the most successful yet recorded at New Hampshire. The Blue and White yearlings played seven games; out of these four were tied, one lost, and two won. In addition, the record shows that the frosh scored a total of 13 points as against 11 for their opponents. Ties with Phillips Exeter, and Hebron Academy, next to the most powerful prep school team in Maine, with victories over Tilton School and Kent's Hill Academy, constitute a favorable record. Like the varsity, the yearlings were handicapped for lack of ice; yet they were further hampered since they went in to their opening games a green team, not used to playing together. As the winter passed, each succeeding game saw an improved team which after mid-season did not lose a game.

Lawrence Academy opened the freshman season and in a game played on very poor ice, the frosh tied their opponents, 3 to 3. Fred Schipper, later elected captain, proved outstanding in the contest, scoring two goals while Gaw added the other count. Four days later the Kittens chalked up their first victory, defeating Tilton School, 4 to 3. With the score 2 to 3 against them at the start of the third period, Schipper drove the rubber twice from scrimmage in the final minutes to win the game. Bridgton Academy swooped down from Maine the next week and had things their own way, taking home a 5 to 2 verdict. Though ice slowed up the game, New Hampton and the Kittens battled for two over time periods three days later in a tie contest, 0 to 0.

Excellent ice provided for a very fast game the next afternoon between the Kittens and Exeter. The contest ended in a tie score which neither side could break, and the visitors were forced to return to the Academy leaving the count 2 all. Schipper and Corosa scored for the frosh. Hebron likewise proved a stubborn competitor, and though the Kittens led throughout the entire fray a goal, as result of a face-off in front of the frosh net, brought the game to a 1 to 1 deadlock which a ten minute overtime failed to break. On the strength of a goal made in the opening period, the freshmen closed the hockey season the next day with a 1 to 0 victory over a fighting Kent's Hill sextet which rallied desperately but was unable to batter down a strong Kitten offense.

Freshman Baseball

In baseball, the Kittens had a highly successful season winning 10 out of 12 games and scoring 62 runs to 43 for their opponents. Despite the fact that the club proved to be weak at bat, excellent field work, backed up by reasonably good pitching, brought the New Hampshire yearlings to the front among New England freshman nines. The Kittens opened their season with a run of five straight games which included an important 3 to 2 victory over Dartmouth freshmen at Hanover. Both teams were tied 2 to 2 until a lucky seventh brought the all important run for the freshmen. At Harvard, the Kittens found themselves up against a strong ball team, and the Crimson freshmen crushed the visitors, 8 to 0. The following week the yearling nine once again sat on the high end of a 5 to 4 score over Boston University frosh. In this game Fred Moody distinguished himself by lacing out a home run. Continuing a winning streak, Carl Lundholm's ball club swept over Tilton, and Wentworth Institute before being brought to a sudden halt by Nichols Junior College who administered the second defeat of the year to the Kittens on Brackett field, 3 to 2. Coming back strongly, the yearling nine again broke into the winning column a few days later by conquering the New Hampton school baseball club, 3 to 1. For the final game of the season, the Kittens faced a strong nine which came from Maine with an excellent season's record. Undaunted, the Blue and White frosh easily defeated Hebron Academy, 7 to 5. A four-run rally by the Pine Tree State team in the ninth inning was quelled by the frosh in time to insure a final victory, closing a highly gratifying spring's work both to the members of the team and spectators.

History of Women's Athletic Association

According to a plan adopted in 1923, varsity teams in women's sports were abandoned because they gave opportunity to only a few women. The Women's Athletic Association then sponsored inter-class games to take their place. Competition takes place in hockey, soccer, bowling, basketball, baseball, tennis, track, and archery. Membership in the Association is based on points earned by participating in various sports, and by hiking, swimming, skating, and other activities. One hundred points are needed for membership and seventy-five points a year to retain membership. When a member has earned three hundred and fifty to seven hundred and fifty points, pins are awarded. An N. H. is awarded to those earning one thousand points.

Four years ago the first college Play Day was held at this University, and delegates from the colleges in northern New England were guests. Again this year our W. A. A. will be host to visitors for College Play Day to be held on February twenty-fifth. It is now an annual affair to have girls from different schools together so that they may play with each other, rather than against each other. Each year, also, high schools within a radius of fifty miles send six delegates to be guests of W. A. A. at another Play Day. The six delegates who attend do so with the idea of returning to help all girls to play.

The Women's Athletic Association is a member of the national organization, the Athletic Conference for American College Women. They usually send a delegate to their convention which is held every two years.

A cabin, situated about seven miles from the campus has been erected by the Association for the use of its members and other University women. Week-ends of rest and fun are enjoyed at the cabin throughout the year.

WE NOMINATE for "OBLIVION"

Olive J. Thayer:

because she knows she has nice eyes and is clever enough to know how to use them; because her habit of being consistently late to class is an obvious failure in its original purpose; because we believe Floradora girls are a thing of the past and should not be reinstated in Durham's "modern" society!

Romeo J. Bucknam:

because he is apt to make "much ado about nothing"; because he fails to realize that the second Harris, like the first, will be born—not made; because as Editor of "The New Hampshire" he has improved Durham's weekly to the extent that the editor of this book is forced to dig harder in an attempt to produce an even better result!

George A. Sweeney:

because he creates a liability greater than his asset of cheerfulness by telling us his troubles—tales which were old stuff by the end of his freshman year; because he attempts to conceal his distant relation to the Shamrock; because he carries a big brother attitude toward all our sweet co-eds; because it is necessary to apply the salt shaker with great gusto to everything he says; and because he pans New Hampshire!

Henry F. Brett:

because he wastes our valuable class hours raising his "sweet" soprano voice in agitation and argument with our teachers; because he is a typical high-pressure fraternity man; because he is an egotist; and because, with all his commendable qualities, we don't like calamity howlers.

Lillianne E. Mathieu:

because she attempts to act like a "College Humor" description of a collegiate co-ed; because she concentrates too much on cutting remarks which unfortunately fall far short of being even humorous; because she likes to play little girl when she should be developing herself for womanhood.

Most Representative of Blue and White

In accordance with the custom initiated by the 1926 GRANITE, we present the two seniors designated as "Most Representative of Blue and White." In order to explain the exact meaning of this honor, we must go back eight years: The 1926 GRANITE decided that some recognition should be given to the man and woman in the senior class whose service to the college, in the opinion of the students, had been most outstanding. General all-around ability was the factor to be considered in making this choice; not just one line of excellence. Now it is our privilege to introduce the two selected this year as "Most Representative of Blue and White."

Arthur B. Learmonth, of Lawrence, Massachusetts, has been president of Student Council this past year. This is the highest honor which may be awarded a senior, and it is a symbol of leadership. He is a member of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, and Senior Skulls, Honorary Senior Society. He has been active in athletics, meanwhile keeping up in his scholastic work. He has played three years on the varsity football team, being honored with the captaincy this past fall. He will complete his third year as a point-gainer for the track team this spring.

Gertrude A. Chamberlain is a member of Kappa Delta sorority and is president of Women's Student Government. Her activities include vice-president of Y. W. C. A., Cap and Gown, Senior Honorary Society for women, Glee Club, soccer, baseball, and in addition she is president of her sorority. These activities tend to make her the best all-around girl in the senior class.

CONGRATULATIONS!
